Mr.Ranga Rao's reply to the Private Secretary's query.

Copies of the Reforms collections have gone to all gentlemen in England and the bulk of gentlemen in India. Some have to go to local people. Copies are being despatched to leading English papers.

Your query about the Reforms handbook is not clear. If the Dewan desires the hand book to embody Regulations and the rules thereunder, the work can be taken up after the publication of the rules. If it is intended to publish the book in two volumes - one containing (i) Dewan's introductory remarks (ii) Proclamation (iii) the two regulations and (iV) the Government order of the 27th October and another containing the rules promulgated under the Regulations, the first volume can be printed at once. Kindly get the Dewan's order and communicate.

I just received the instructions contained below.

I regret my reply was not quite correctly communicated. I said that though the Election rules were published, rules on other matters had to be framed in connection with both the R. A. and the L. C. Regulations and that until they were framed all matters relating to the reforms could not be brought into one book.

If there is no objection the work will be taken up on the my return from casual leave.
